Michael McDowell, Ph.D., is a professor of philosophy at the University of Texas in Arlington.

Nathan Robert Brown is an author and a mythologist living in North Texas. His academic and professional works have led him to do extensive research in the areas of world mythology, folklore, urban legends, ancient civilizations, and world religions. Nathan spends much of his free time as a public speaker and pro-bono demonology consultant. He is the author of such books as The Complete Idiot's Guide(r) to Werewolves, The Complete Idiot's Guide(r) to Zombies, Dead Come Home, The Complete Idiot's Guide(r) to the Paranormal, The Complete Idiot's Guide(r) to World Mythology, and Fallen Angels of Vengeance.

Very informative

Great product

Great read, became helpful in my religious class.

this was a very good class. I learned a lot about different religions, this is a good book even to just keep and read for personal purposes. good quality, came in the mail earlier than expected

if you are doubting if you are practicing the religion that best suits you, this is a great way to start ironing out those details.

I bought this years ago and just had to write this review. One of my favorite books. I believe every child should have to read this book in school. I don't understand how schools can teach the Holocaust without giving an understanding of Judaism, or current events without basic Islamic history. Not talking indoctrination, but to fight prejudice we need basic history, cultural understanding, an appreciation for our differences, and healthy critiques of our own belief systems. Strength through Diversity!

This particular installment of the At Your Fingertips series is a comprehensive, well thought out, non-biased review of all the world's major religions, and some of the smaller ones as well. Though it does not have much on death or mourning rituals, the overall presentation is one of equal parts sensitivity and objectivity. Few other basic introductory works of this type have managed to do such a concise presentation in so short a space.
