Customer Reviews

Randall Wilson has coauthored books on transport and other subjects since retiring from his career with the Australian Government. Dale Budd is involved professionally with the rail industry at a national level.

I last visited Melbourne nearly 25 years ago and still have pleasant memories of their tram system, but anyone with an appreciation for trams would like this book; it has a good collection of vintage and more modern photos. The colors are very nice and there's a sufficient amount of pertinent information.
